

This Week in Mt. Gretna

Celebrating our 22nd year of service to the Mt. Gretna Community ❖ Friday, May 22, 2020

FIRST EDITION OF THE 128th SEASON

Friends, the conviviality, religious, cultural and social gatherings we all look forward to sharing together as a community (including our seasonal visitors) every summer have been disrupted by an uninvited invader. As such, our businesses and planning organizations have been forced to cancel, postpone and adapt their plans for enjoyment to the best of their ability. As a result, the Mt. Gretna Arts Council suspended the printing of their summer calendar (since most of the information contained was rendered invalid). However, at a virtual meeting of representatives of the planning groups, the continuation of This Week in Mt. Gretna was deemed essential so that our community would be apprised of what this season's business hours/services are from week-to-week, as well as program options/events that may become available in the future. We are seeking funding to underwrite printing costs, for the many folks unaware of Mt. Gretna's digital information sources. We will do our best to keep abreast of this information to share with you.
